The Spiraling Cave

Collect the Thermal Energy from the sacs growing on the ground and use the Machine Gun to blast your way through the swarming Trilid towards the Data Post straight ahead. Activate the Data Post and quickly jump down the giant rock staircase beyond the Data Post to reach the floor of the cave. Make a dash for the GTF-11 in the northeast corner of the cave and quickly climb aboard.

QUEEN

Height	66,000
Width	34,400

The Queen, unlike the lesser Chryatis that it resembles, is incapable of moving about. It is restricted to the hole in the center of the cave and it's a good thing too, as it is quite a bit bigger than the other Akrid Wayne has faced. The Queen will not waste any time in attacking Wayne when the battle begins, so quickly step to the side to avoid its freezing blast attack.

BOSS ATTACK TECHNIQUES

Freeze Blast
Dmg. Inflicted Low
The Queen will cock its head back and spit an icy blast of air with rock-crushing force at Wayne's direction. Strafe out of the way.

Horizontal Slash
Dmg. Inflicted Moderate
Watch for it to bring one of its arms up and back as this is the precursor to a nasty horizontal slash. This attack can be easily jumped over

Ice Attack
Dmg. Inflicted Moderate
The Queen turns its head from side to side while spewing a blast of icy air that creates a row of razor-sharp icicles.

Ceiling Pound
Dmg. Inflicted Moderate
Watch for the beast to swing one of its arms in an uppercut motion repeatedly. It may look like it's missing you, but what it's really doing is setting loose a cascade of falling rocks!

Stomp Attack
Dmg. Inflicted Severe
This powerful overhead stomp attack comes quick and doesn't let up for some time. The Queen repeatedly slams one of its claws downward with tremendous power

There are several weak spots on the Queen that Wayne can exploit. Chief among these weaknesses are the Thermal Energy deposits found where the Queen' legs join the body. Although they can withstand a lot of damage, shooting them will gradually turn the Thermal Energy from yellow to red and then ultimately it bursts, thereby severing the leg. Not only does this inflict significant pain, but it forces the Queen to fall limp on the floor, giving Wayne a clean shot at the Thermal Energy in the beast's forehead. This is its true weak spot!

Wayne needs to use the GTF-11's Hovering ability (or the GTB-22's various jumping abilities) to avoid the Queen's attacks. These attacks consist primarily of it using its massive front legs to lash out at Wayne with various melee attacks, but it also uses the legs to occasionally pound the ceiling and cause a rockslide. Less obvious, but nearly as deadly is the beast's frozen breath. Watch for it to cock its head back and snap forward while blowing icy cold air at Wayne.

Early in the battle, this attack takes the form of a sudden blast of cold, much like a projectile attack.

Later on, however, the Queen swings its head from left to right and spray a mass of cold air that leaves a ridge of icicles across the arena. Pay close attention to the movements of the creature's head while fighting it and prepare to backpedal and leap out of the way when it is about to unleash one of its icy attacks.

Be sure to stay on the move during the battle, both to avoid the incoming attacks and also to collect the Thermal Energy and weaponry lying around. Use the Gatling Guns to shoot the stalactites on the ceiling to drop them onto the Queen and continue circling around it and shooting its much smaller legs, as they too have Thermal Energy in them and are sources of weakness. Equip the Rocket Launcher on the VS and use it along with the Gatling Gun to continue firing at the beast's legs and forehead. The legs grow back repeatedly, but each time one is severed, Wayne has a clean shot at the head. Have the Rocket Launcher loaded and ready to fire. It won't take long before Wayne clears the mountain of its final resident.

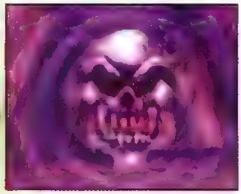
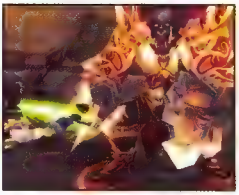
GETTING TO HELLFIRE RAMPARTS

Hellfire Ramparts is one wing of Hellfire Citadel. Situated neatly in the center of Hellfire Peninsula, it's close to both Horde and Alliance flight points and graveyards.

Alliance parties can climb the wall on the southern side of the ravine and drop down to the instance entrance. Horde parties should climb the wall on the northern side of the ravine and take the ramp down to the instance entrance.





A Quick In and Out!

One of the greatest parts of the Hellfire Ramparts is the shortness of the instance. It can be done multiple times in a day or during a shorter window of play for the more casual players.

ATOP THE WALLS

The Ramparts

While the trip in is uneventful, that ends at the instance portal. The rest of the trip is a hard fight through legions of enemies

Guarding the first bridge is a pair of Bonechewer Hungerers. Wait for the patrolling Bonechewer Ravener to be on the other side of the bridge before pulling the two The fight is fairly straight-forward.

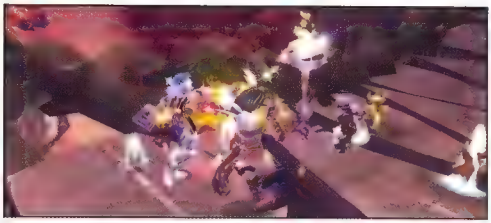
Take this opportunity to practice the group's crowd control. The fight is small enough that failed crowd control isn't a death sentence and the instance portal is right behind you if anything goes wrong. The party leader should designate a symbol for each type of target and explain the attack order

Sample Explanation
Symbol	Designation	Attack Order
Star	Sap	1
Moon	Polymorph	2
Skull	Tank & DPS	3

This example assumes three enemies and a group with a Rogue and Mage. Your group will be different, so take the time to find what everyone is comfortable with

With the first two guards out of the way, grab the Bonechewer Ravener next time he wanders to this side of the bridge Destroy him and dispatch the far two Bonechewer Hungerers in the same way you did the first two

Cross the bridge and prepare for slightly more difficult fights. There are three enemies in each group and all of them are elite. The Bleeding Hollow Darkcasters and Archers attack from range, so they are good candidates for CC. The Bonechewer Destroyer has a number of melee attacks that make him quite dangerous. Kill him first to keep him from making the life of the caster(s) too difficult



Keep your backs facing the bridge (or other areas you've cleared) while fighting the Bonechewer Destroyer. He can knock you off the ramparts if you are unlucky. A fall from the ramparts is death no matter who you are. He also has a cleave attack, so keep the Destroyer facing away from melee DPS characters and other soft target party members

The Bleeding Hollow Darkcaster should be your next target as he can be interrupted and pulled to the group. Without use of his spells, he's little more than a glorified bookworm. With only one enemy left, the Bleeding Hollow Archer won't last long

Move to the next group and handle it much the same. Continue along the rampart until you reach the group of two Bonechewer Hungerers and two Shattered Hand Warhounds The Warhounds are not elite and can be killed quickly. CC the Hungerers until the Warhounds have been dispatched. Avoid using AoE attacks on the Warhounds; breaking CC on either or both of the Hungerers will prove to be deadly to the character who cast the AoE

Do not attempt to use Sap on enemies near the Warhounds. The Warhounds can smell through stealth and alert others to your presence. If the only in-combat CC you have in the party is Hibernate, the tactics should change slightly. Hibernate one of the Warhounds; kill the other Warhound, then the two Hungerers. Kill the final Warhound last.

Once again, the enemies have upped the ante There is a group of three Bleeding Hollow Seers surrounding a Bonechewer Ripper. This fight is going to test your CC capabilities as well as your pulling. All four enemies are elite and the Seers can cast fear.

CC as many of the Seers as possible and pull the fight back. As the Seers can fear, you don't want to fight near another group. One bad fear and you'll be fighting far more than you can handle.

Kill the active Seers first. If you have an off-tank, they should hold the Ripper away from the rest of the party until all non CC'd Seers are dead. Focus on the Ripper next, then the remaining Seers one at a time.

The Corridor

A Bonechewer Beastmaster and two Bonechewer Destroyers stand before you. Don't pull this group yet. Wait for the patrolling Bonechewer Hungerer with his two Shattered Hand Warhounds. When they are closest to you, pull them away from the Destroyers and Beastmaster.

Pulling these prior to the Beastmaster fight keeps them from joining when you least want them to. CC the Hungerer well away from the Beastmaster and kill the two Warhounds. Once the Warhounds are dead, finish the Hungerer and rest to full.

The next fight looks much easier than it is. Rest to full Mana and Health before beginning the fight. Two Bonechewer Destroyers stand near a Bonechewer Beastmaster. Do not attempt to Sap any of the targets as the Beastmaster can smell through stealth. CC one of the Destroyers as soon as the fight starts.

If you have spare CC, use it on the Beastmaster while you kill the second Destroyer. Keep the first Destroyer CC'd as you move to the Beastmaster. During the fight, he will summon several Shattered Hand Warhounds.

Hold the Beastmaster while you destroy all the Warhounds he summoned. They aren't elite, but will do incredible damage if allowed to chew on a caster. With all his friends dead, finish off the Beastmaster and the last Destroyer.

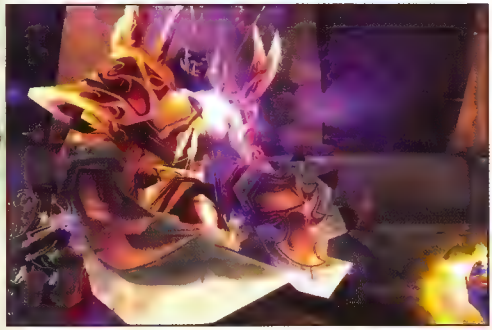
Learning the Ropes

This is one of the 'wipe' fights for players new to the instance. The run from the graveyard is short so don't despair and don't destroy a group by blaming the wipe on a specific person. Examine what you could have done better and note it for future runs as you make your way back to the instance.

The next fight is against another group of four elite enemies. One Bonechewer Ravener and one Bonechewer Destroyer are guarding two Bleeding Hollow Darkcasters. If you have enough in-combat CC, keep the Darkcasters from participating in the fight while you kill the Ravener and Destroyer. The Destroyer does more damage than the Ravener, but the Ravener will stun your tank repeatedly. A stunned tank can't control aggro, so kill the Ravener first. The rest of the fight is simple. Kill the Destroyer, than the Darkcasters one at a time.

If you are short on in-combat CC, kill the Darkcasters first, while the tank holds the Ravener and Destroyer away from the party. With stuns and knockbacks on the tank, losing aggro is expected. Kill the Darkcasters quickly and move on to the Ravener and Destroyer.

Many of the next fights involve both elite enemies and the Shattered Hand Warhounds. CC the elite enemies and kill the Warhounds. This tactic is extremely useful and keep you safe until you see Watchkeeper Gargolmar and his Hellfire Watchers patrolling.



This is the first boss and should not be taken lightly. Wait for him to patrol away and pull the enemy groups on each side of the corridor The fights are similar to what you've done before and the enemies need to be cleared before you engage Gargolmar. Take a moment to regain Health and Mana before pulling Gargolmar's group.

Gargolmar inflicts high melee damage and can surge to intercept the party member furthest from him knocking all nearby targets down. The tank should hold Gargolmar while the rest of the group kills the two Hellfire Watchers. The Watchers heal Gargolmar if allowed to live. CC one if you have in-combat CC and kill the other. If you don't have any in-combat CC, have someone with interrupts keep the second Hellfire Watcher ineffective while the party kills the first.

Pet classes can leave their pet at range to take the brunt of Gargolmar's surges. This keeps the more fragile party members safe from his attention. With both the Watchers dead, show Gargolmar the power of Azeroth! Gargolmar's abilities can wreak havoc on your party, so watch out! His Mortal Wound stacks, but is like Mortal Strike in all other ways. This prevents healing and inflicts a considerable amount of damage. His Overpower and Retaliation (which counters melee attacks) are just like the Warrior abilities and can inflict serious damage to all members, especially non-plate wearers.

Jumping Ahead

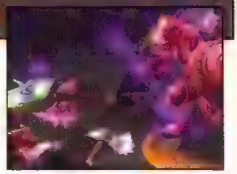
If your party is experienced with Hellfire Ramparts and in a hurry, the next few groups on the right side of the corridor can be skipped by sticking to the left side. This should only be done by experienced parties as most characters can benefit from the practice, the reputation, and the item drops.

On the right are two more groups very similar to what you've already fought. With all the patrollers removed, these are straightforward fights. CC the casters, kill any non-elites, and then kill the elites one at a time

The doorway at the end of the corridor is guarded by two Bonechewer Hungerers. You've fought these before and they aren't a threat if your party has made it this far. Kill them and enter the staircase. Approach the top of the staircase carefully as a large and challenging fight awaits you in the next corridor

Four Bleeding Hollow Scryers surround one Bonechewer Ripper in the next hallway. The Scryers cast Shadow bolt and Fear and can be quite dangerous with so many of them. The Ripper can enrage as well.

Pull them with a ranged attack and wait for the Scryers to start casting. As soon as they begin casting, duck around the corner and back onto the stairs. This gives you time as they will try to complete their castings before they realize you are out of line of sight Once they realize this, they will run to the stairs to start casting again.



Jump on the Ripper and kill him quickly. Use AoE CC abilities to keep the Scryers from doing anything useful. Psychic Scream and Intimidating Shout are good examples of these. If you are without AoE CC, use what CC you can and burn through the enemies at maximum speed. The less CC you have, the more damage you have, so use it

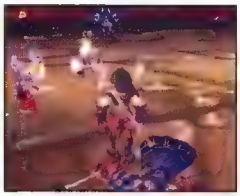
Once the Ripper and a couple of the Scryers are down, the battle becomes much easier It's far harder to die in a couple seconds when there are only two enemies. Once the encounter is done, rest to regain lost Mana and Health.

The doorway at the end of the corridor is guarded by two Bonechewer Destroyers When your party is ready, pull and kill these two overmatched guards The open area beyond is of much more concern

The Platforms

There are groups on the left, on the right, in the center, and roaming the area. Wait for the roaming group to be away before pulling the group to the right back into the hallway

If you fight them at the edge of the open area, the patrolling group will join. Have someone who isn't the tank pull this group and run back to the staircase and around the corner. This forces the two Bleeding Hollow Archers to run down the hallway and to their doom. Use in-combat CC to hold the Archers while you dispatch the Destroyer then the Archers



The roaming Bonechewer Ravener and two Shattered Hand Warhounds are your next targets. Wait for them to patrol away from the other groups and pull them into the hallway Kill the dogs first and the Ravener won't stand a chance

The area is much manageable now. The group to the left consists of one Bleeding Hollow Darkcaster, one Bonechewer Hungerer, and two Bonechewer Destroyers. CC the Destroyers and rush the group. Kill the Darkcaster first as it won't have time to be effective before you're finished with it. The Hungerer is your second target and finish with the Destroyers

The final group on the platform should be very scared. Charge them and kill the Darkcaster, then the Warhound before engaging the melee enemies Both the Darkcaster and Warhound have lower Health and neither last long

After exiting the platform area, take the entrance guarded by two Bonechewer Hungerers. Kill the Hungerers and proceed to Omor the Unscarred

Two Darkcasters guard access to Omor. These can be kill without angering Omor, but don't charge them. Use any ranged interrupts you have and get CC ready. Pull one and interrupt the first to force it to come to you; CC the other. Bring the other Darkcaster to clear the way to Omor

Omor's Treacherous Aura

Omor casts a rather damaging curse. Anyone able to remove curses should be prepared to do so. The curse causes massive Shadow damage to all members near the afflicted.

Equipping items that increase your Shadow Resistance can make this less painful, but nothing beats removal.

Omor isn't someone to be taken lightly. He has reasonable Health, summons friends, and casts a curse that can affect an entire party if you aren't careful. Your tank should charge in and hold Omor as close to the center of the platform as possible. Ranged DPS should spread out while still being in healing range.

This keeps your party out of range of the curse without reducing their effectiveness If anyone gets cursed near you, move away from them to avoid taking damage. The Shadow damage can easily cause a wipe if you don't keep track of it.

Several times throughout the fight, Omor will summon Felhounds to aid him. These Felhounds have the Spell Lock ability that can destroy a party since it prevents casters from casting. Omor also has the Orbital Whip ability (which launches a target into the air and bounces them around) and the Shadow Whip ability (that pulls the target back to the ground). This can effectively keep a member of the party out of the fight. Burst DPS classes should destroy these before they can cause a problem for your healer. Casters should watch their Health as Omor casts Demonic Shield when he reaches low Health. Avoid using any of your large spells during the last few moments of his life.

With all of this in mind, the fight will go smoothly. Keep your party healed and Omor falls. Collect your booty and return to the central platform for the final few fights.

Vazruden the Herald flies over the final platform. There is a small group of enemies guarding the bridge, but they are of little consequence. Kill them, but don't pull the Hellfire Sentries. Rest to full Health and Mana and prepare for a frantic fight.

Fire Fires From Above

Vazruden the Herald employs a number of fire attacks throughout the fight. Consider using Fire Protection Potions and equipping items that increase your Fire Resistance to make the fight less stressful.

Pulling the Hellfire Sentries begins the final fight. While they aren't of consequence, Vazruden jumps off his dragon and engages you as soon as you kill the Sentries. Vazruden does high physical damage, but he's not your primary concern. Nazan breathes fire from the sky and small areas burn with dragonfire for a short time as a result. Do not stand in these flaming circles. The damage they do is immense.

Slowly kill Vazruden while dodging the breath attacks of Nazan. Hold as much of your Mana as you can as things get much worse later. When Vazruden gets low on Health, he'll summon his dragon to land and fight with him. Finish Vazruden quickly and turn your attention to Nazan.

Even on the ground, Nazan is terribly dangerous. His physical attacks aren't that strong, but he still uses a Fireball attack that leaves Liquid Flame on the ground. Be careful! While his physical attacks aren't strong, Vazruden's spells can alter the tide of battle in a second!

The tank needs to keep Nazan facing away from the party without standing in a circle of fire. Use all your Mana on your fastest damaging spells. Use any timers you have to increase your damage output. Keep the tank up as best you can with rapid fire healing. This is a race to see who can kill who first.

If your party stays out of the circles of fire, the healer should have enough Mana to keep the tank alive long enough for the party to kill the dragon. If the tank goes down, abandon all hope of healing people and switch to all out DPS. The only way to win is to kill the beast before it kills you.

Resurrect any party members that died in the engagement, collect your loot and head home.

NO WAY OUT

Northern Command

Cheshire, England
13 July 1951—3:34 GMT

MISSION OVERVIEW

The Nottingham operation was a success. I sent the troops back to Southern Command for some well-earned rest. I was taking Hale to the intelligence division at Northern Command for debriefing. After Hale's heroics in Manchester and Nottingham, there were going to be a lot of questions. Hale was the one who really deserved the answers, but I didn't have any. I radioed Northern Command on our approach. No response. As we landed, I could already sense the worst. The whole place was deathly silent...

SEPARATION ANXIETY

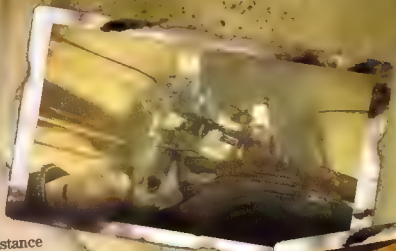
★ Restore Auxiliary Power to Northern Command

Northern Command, once a bustling hub of resistance activity, is now a deserted mausoleum. It's clear the Chimera wiped out the entire military workforce and, from the sound of it, the enemy is still here. Before anyone has a chance to react, the underground bunker experiences a cave-in and Hale becomes separated from Parker and her men.

It's clear that Hale is on his own. Unfortunately, he doesn't have long to ponder the situation, as the Chimera launch an attack from beyond the thick dust and smoke choking the main tunnel. Quickly duck and take cover on either side of the tunnel entrance while shooting and lobbing grenades into the opening to hold back the assault.

After stifling these foes, move into the tunnel and use the pipes along the wall for cover or throw down a force shield with the Auger to keep the next set of Hybrid at bay. Exterminate the Chimeran resistance while slowly moving forward.

The hub of Northern command is connected via a complex system of tunnels, creating a maze-like labyrinth. However, most of the doors are shut and locked, forcing Hale down a specific path. Whenever you approach a junction or intersection, make sure to explore every nook and cranny for extra munitions and Sym-Bac serum.



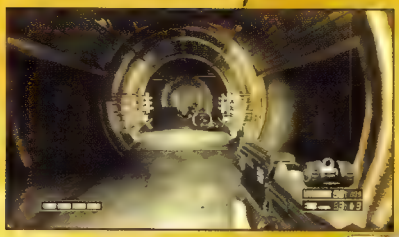
REVITALIZE

If the need arises, retrace Hale's steps back to the tunnel entrance. There are two gated pathways that lead to dead ends, but one has a few canisters of Sym-Bac serum while the other path leads to some Carbine ammo.

KITCHEN CONUNDRUM

The tunnel leads Hale into the mess hall and it looks like he's the main course! When the sound of the Leapers pierces the air, back out into the tunnel and force the onslaught into a bottleneck for easier kills.

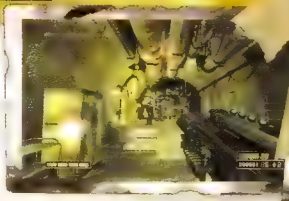
When the coast is clear, search through the mess hall and the kitchen behind it to find some ammo and Sym-Bac serum. After doing so, walk through the open doorway in the back-left corner and exit the mess hall.



CHILLS AND THRILLS

It's bad enough that the power is out and the claustrophobic tunnels are poorly lit, but when a Chimera bolts across the tunnel in front of Hale, it's enough to make your heart leap out of your throat! Brace yourself and continue down the corridor.

THE DARKNESS



Follow the Chimera by taking a right at the intersection, then take a left and prepare to fight it out with some Hybrids and Steelheads. While these tight spaces aren't really made for sniping, use the Fareye (and its focus ability) to quickly target the enemy.

Continue along the tunnel system. The next intersection leads to two paths, both of which have small sets of stairs that lead to another area. Take the left set first, defeat the Hybrid, then follow the tunnel to the left. Although this is basically a dead end, there is a nice stash of munitions here. Now return back to the other path.

Continue up the opposite set of stairs into what resembles a generator room. There is more Chimera resistance here, but it's nothing too difficult. Also, look for the Intel Item on the floor.

DOCUMENT INTELLIGENCE #15

INVASION

This map shows the rapid Chimeran proliferation from Russia into Europe and beyond.

Unfortunately, there is no way to turn on the auxiliary power from this room, so continue onward. The next area is like a train depot of sorts and home to a Chimeran squad of Hybrids and a Steelhead. Focus on the Steelhead first (look behind one of the railcars), then go after the pack of Chimera near the back-left part of the room. Or, shoot the barrel behind the Hybrids to eliminate them in spectacular fashion!

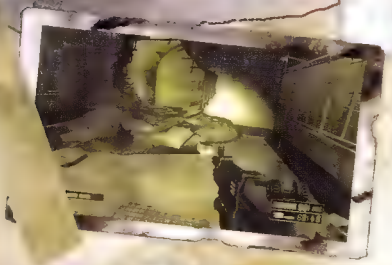
The depot is filled with makeshift bunk beds, stacked crates, and other debris. Follow the back wall to get by the obstacles and access the second half of the room. Next, cross back over the train tracks and move into the next set of tunnels on the other side.

There are more foes, including a Steelhead, in the room attached to the right side of the main tunnel. The enemies are emerging from a hole in the wall along the right side of the locker room. Take aim and lob/launch a few grenades, then duck for cover and pick off the rest of the foes as they pour out of the entrance.

Continue down the main tunnel until it reaches a dead end. As Hale approaches the gate, he feels a strange force. His vision blurs and turns yellow. Could this effect have something to do with the twisted, grotesque carcass of a new Chimeran enemy lying dead on the ground?

The Slipskull

Slipskulls are cunning opportunists who prefer to take pot shots rather than face their opponents. With their speed and stealth, they excel as scouts and ambushers. When a Slipskull makes an appearance, quickly dispose of it before it summons any reinforcements. Use explosives against them for the best results.



Return to the locker room and enter the hole in the wall. Now inside the chamber, follow the path to reach another series of tunnels. These tunnels lead to the Living Quarters, home to the first appearance of some live Slipskulls. The Auger is a good choice against these powerful foes.

The Living Quarters is basically a large underground tunnel with rooms built into its sides. Explore each room in search of ammo and supplies. Be methodical and start with the first set of rooms and clear each room before moving to the next one.

The last room on the right is only accessible via the tunnel in the room prior to it. Climb through the tunnel and locate the two objects on the desk in the corner: an Intel Item and a cache of Air-Fuel Grenades.

DOCUMENT INTELLIGENCE #16

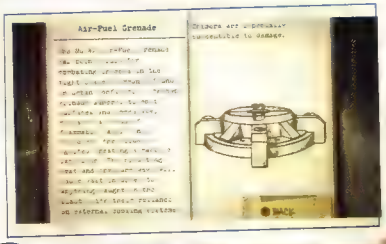
Specimen Tank

These blueprints are for some kind of strange storage tank built to hold mysterious cargo.

Air-Fuel Grenade

WEAPON INTELLIGENCE

The No 42 Air-Fuel Grenade has been issued for combating Chimera in the tight spaces commonly found in urban conflicts. A thrown grenade adheres to most surfaces and immediately releases a cloud of flammable vapor. Once deployed, the cloud ignites and creates a massive explosion. The resulting heat and pressure wave will cause vast injuries to anything caught in the blast.



TUNNEL TERROR

Exit the Living Quarters by going through the gate at the opposite end of the tunnel. While moving down the tunnel, a huge creature burrows through the walls directly in front of Hale. The dust and debris are too thick to get a good look at it, but its size is massive!

Jump into the tunnel and follow it until you reach an opening that leads to a large boiler room. Of course, it's patrolled by Chimera—in this instance, a Steelhead and a Hybrid. Equip the Fareye and use focus to slow down time and pick them off without getting hit by their fire.

When it's safe to do so, drop down into the boiler room and climb the stairs to the top level. Throw the switch against the wall at the top of the stairs to activate the auxiliary power.

FIRST ENCOUNTERS

★ Restore auxiliary power to Northern Command

INTO THE CORE

This switch also opens the doorway on the second floor, so find a good vantage point and take aim. Use the open door to enter the massive core around the corner to the right. Follow the walkway around its perimeter, then take the stairs that lead down to the floor level.

AIR-FUEL SURPRISE

This is a good opportunity to use your newly acquired Air-Fuel Grenades. Toss one into the doorway (don't worry about accuracy, it sticks to just about any surface), then sit back and watch as the air fills with volatile gas that erupts into flames!

There are two Howlers hiding amongst the machinery and other debris down here. Load up the Rossmore and take evasive action if they get close enough to lunge at Hale. To exit the area, locate the opening along the south portion of the wall and follow the tunnel to the generator room.

Snipers are very similar to Drones, but they are equipped only with the Longshot rifle and are almost always out of Marcus' direct reach. Look for them in the windows of nearby buildings or on rooftops.

KRYLL
Despite their size, the Kryll are arguably the most fearsome creatures in all of Sera. There is no way to combat them with conventional weaponry, and they are so numerous, it would be a futile cause anyway. Stay out of the dark, or else.

NIGHTFALL

SITUATION REPORT

If mankind should ever fall, it will likely be the vast extent of our collective hubris that does us in. Thinking Alpha and Delta Squad could repel the Locust Horde long enough to land a chopper at the House of Sovereigns is just the kind of conceit that gets good men killed—may those pilots and Lieutenant Kim rest in peace. And now, with hopes of an evacuation crushed, Marcus and his squad are instructed to take the resonator and hoof it to the distant Lethia Imulsion Factory—a destination they cannot reach before sunset. The team has been fighting the Locust Horde long enough to know that hitting the streets of Ephyra after dusk is certain suicide. If they're to survive, they'll have to swallow their pride and rely on the help of the Stranded.

COG TAGS

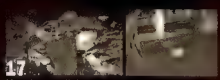
Use the Lancer to shoot up the couch in the alcove at the base of the steps to find the COG Tag.

14
Exit the room with the collapsing catwalk, descend the stairs, and look behind the rubble in the alley.

15
Look behind the mailbox and newspaper box on the sidewalk before you pass through the gate to the settlement.

16
This one is located in the shack near the propane tank, to the far left of the first Emergence Hole after you leave the camp.



17
Use the spotlight to light up the area near the rusted car in order to reach the COG Tag without being killed by the Kryll.

18
Near the car with the propane tank in it, to the right of the doorway you exit. Shoot the tank to spread some light on the area, and quickly pick up the COG Tag before running down the street.

RIGHT PATH: HIGH ROUTE

FIND A MODE OF TRANSPORT

Whether he likes it or not, Marcus is stuck with Baird for the time being. Descend into the trench and follow it to the far end, where some extra Frag Grenades can be found—be sure to grab them! Exit the trench, ascend the stairs inside the building, and turn left.

This two-story room contains a pair of Boomers down below. If Marcus and Baird don't do something fast, those big fellows will unload on Gus and Dom. Switch to the Frag Grenades and take time to aim so that it bounces directly behind the two Boomers, who are unaware of your presence. Get it close enough, and that lone Frag Grenade will clear the path for the other guys.

Continue through the hall to the right and advance toward the Drone behind the toppled pillar up ahead. The twosome down below may need some extra firepower, so be sure to give a hand with the Lancer if necessary. Follow the path out onto the fire escape and descend to the street. Make sure to grab the Frag Grenade under the stairs near the couch, and slowly exit the alley with a Frag Grenade in hand.

Aim the Frag Grenade at an angle toward the barricade near the building's corner, and watch for the two Grenadiers to come into view. To drop the Grenadiers as quickly as possible, try to bounce the Frag Grenade up against the barricade (to stop it from sliding). Dom and Gus enter the area on the opposite side of the chainlink fence to the right. Use the Gnasher to take out the Grenadier approaching your position. Then turn to help the others by shooting through the fence with the Lancer.

Marcus and Baird are one short hallway away from rejoining the others, but there's a Troika at the far end. Give the "Cease Fire" command so that everyone takes cover, most notably Baird. This opens up an opportunity for Marcus to lob a Frag Grenade down the hall toward the Gunner—Roadie Run down the hall and duck into cover to get close. Should you be out of Frag Grenades, issue the "Attack" command to coerce Dom and Gus into ambushing the Gunner. Help them out by distracting the Gunner's attention from afar.

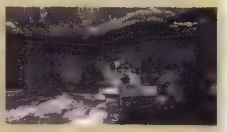
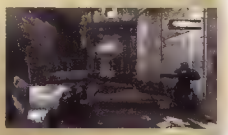
Gus and Dom take the trench and leave Baird and Marcus to look for another route. Cross through the open yard to the left and enter the rubble-strewn building beyond the pillars. Inside, a pair of Boomers emerges from the room to the right. Take cover behind the toppled pieces of concrete, and give the other guys (who are on a balcony above the Boomers) an opportunity to take out one of them. Use Frag Grenades and the Lancer to finish off the surviving Boomer as it comes through the door.



Make your way around the Corpser hole in the distance, and take cover in the courtyard near the statue. Dom and Gus help take out the Drones that appear, but be ready to fight back just in case the Drone makes its way under the balcony and out of the others' view.

Continue through the room with the empty shelving, and use the button near the door to exit into the alley outside. Throw several Frag Grenades over the chainlink fence on the left to kill the two Grenadiers marching toward Dom and Gus. With the Grenadiers put down, it's time to worry about Marcus and Dom. Take cover behind the stone blocks and sweep through the yard and into the building on the right, killing each Locust along the way.

The Gunner in the next room has Dom and Gus pinned down on the other side, but it quickly swivels the Troika in Marcus' direction if he's seen. Take cover as close to the Troika as possible, and give the "Attack" command to get Baird to rush the Spotter. This distracts the Gunner, thus giving Marcus a clear shot at him. Dom and Gus soon join up with Baird and Marcus.



After you clear the area, gather up the ammo and have Jack cut the door to the left of the Troika. Follow the path through the next building and into the next area. Dom knows one of the Stranded and thinks he can borrow a vehicle, so he'll lead the way to a camp.

COG TAG #13

Descend the stairs into the small alcove where the couch is located. Open fire on it with the Lancer or Gnasher. The COG Tag is hidden underneath the couch.

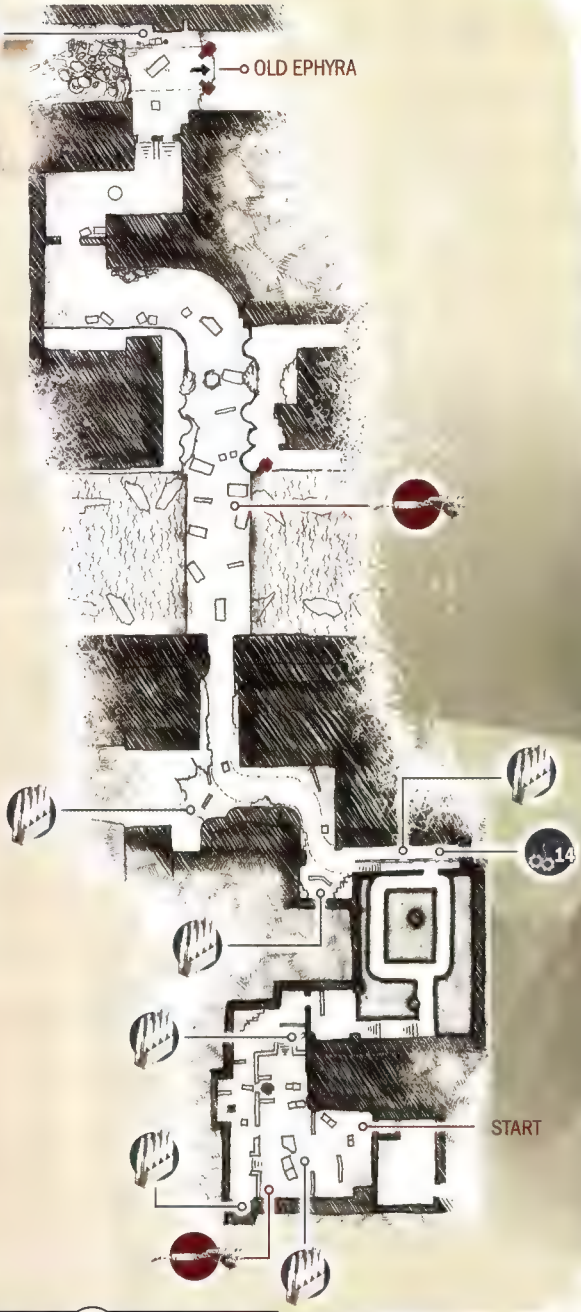
EPHYRA STREETS

2 OF 2

FIND THE STRANDED'S SETTLEMENT

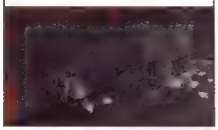
The fight outside the building comes fast and hard, and it doesn't let up until Marcus and his team eliminate multiple Drones, a Boomer, and even a pair of Snipers. Use Frag Grenades at the battle's start to reduce the immediate threat, then give the "Attack" command to the rest of Delta Squad. This is certain to eliminate the Boomer along with any Drones and Grenadiers that are still standing.

With the Boomer destroyed, give the "Cease Fire" command to have everyone duck for cover—there are two Snipers in the building down the road to the right. Try lobbing a Frag Grenade into the lower window, as the blast may well take out both Snipers. If not, use the Lancer to punish the upstairs Sniper when he looks to take his next shot.



COG TAG #14

Descend the stairs outside the room with the circular catwalk, and enter the alley to the right. Look behind the small piece of rubble to find the COG Tag.



Climb the stairs in the factory ahead and follow the catwalk clockwise to the exit. Cut a path through the approaching Wretches to return to the street level outside. Load up on ammunition and fight your way past the next set of enemies to reach the bridge. You may want to pick up the Boomshot from the defeated Boomer along the way.

There's a Troika mounted on the far right side of the bridge, not to mention a seemingly never-ending supply of Drones, Wretches, and Grenadiers exiting an Emergence Hole in the distance. Marcus has to close the hole if his crew is to get any closer to the settlement.

Take cover behind the car in the center of the road, and repeatedly tap the X Button to push it across the bridge toward the Troika. This provides adequate cover while Marcus moves into position near the tipped-over van on the right. From there, he can easily toss a Frag Grenade up toward the Troika and take out the Gunner. With the Troika silenced, give the "Attack" command to the others so they can begin pushing back against the numerous Locust flooding across the bridge.

Take your time and slowly make your way from cover to cover toward the Emergence Hole. Don't try to make a hero run and blow it up without adequate protection from the others, else you'll never make it back. Pay extra attention to the Wretches in this area, as it's easy to get sidetracked by the Grenadiers and forget the speedy little guys with the razor-sharp claws. This fight isn't easy, but the good news is that there's not a single other Locust between here and the gatekeeper at the Stranded's settlement.

COG TAG #15

The COG Tag is behind the mailbox and newspaper dispensers on the sidewalk, to the left of the gate outside the Stranded's settlement (as viewed while you face the gate).

Walkthrough

Reach the Palace Gate

The cave antechamber, called Doubt Abandoned, isn't actually part of the palace. Fight past the Zombie Warriors and floating Imps while descending the slope. Upon reaching the Gate of the Soul Ward at the north end of the cavern, use the Soul Ward Key to open it. (This is the key you received from the Archadian wayfarer back at the Save Crystal.) Now prepare for a wild boss fight!

Imps and Zombie Knights patrol the dank cavern entrance to the Sochen Cave Palace.

ENTER SOCHEN WITH FULL MP

It is important to enter the fight with the five Mandragora bosses with full Mist Charges on all of your Quickening-equipped characters so you can chain as many Quickening attacks as possible. The best way to do this is to start at the Tchita Crystal in the Chosen Path. Turn off gambits en route, then enter the Highlands and hold down the R2 button to flee. Sprint along the left wall to the exit into the Fields of Eternity.

Hold down the R2 button again and sprint to the cave opening, then flee again through the Doubt Abandoned area. When you reach the Gate of the Soul Ward, use Potions to heal any damage you suffered along the way. Now enter the fight with your party's Mist Charges at 100 percent across the board, ready to sling Quickenings at the bosses. Important: Remember to turn your gambits back on for the three characters who made the run here!

When the fight begins, the little bosses scatter in all directions. They have Haste cast on themselves, making them very speedy and difficult to target and counter. If you have active characters without Quickening spells available, use them to cast Dispel on the five foes. Otherwise, hold the R2 button and run around until the Mandragoras re-gather and start chasing the party.

The bosses will form a tight line as they give chase, so this is the moment to trigger a Quickening, targeting the centermost member of the enemy party. As always, try to string together a good Mist chain so you trigger the follow-up area attack that can damage the entire enemy party.

Here's what you're looking for—all five Mandragoras in a row giving chase. This is the best time to nail them with a long Quickening chain if possible, triggering an area attack in the process.

As the fight continues, the Mandragoras follow a pattern. They all attack at once, then when they take damage, they all scatter in multiple directions to regenerate and heal. If your Quickenings didn't wipe them out, cast Dispel on any survivors and wipe them out one by one. You may need to chase the targets a bit, especially when they run off to heal. When this occurs, stay close to them until you can hit them with a series of physical hits.

Overall, the key is to avoid fighting all five Mandragoras at once. Their combined attacks can decimate your party quickly.

Remember, the Mandragora bosses were a mark for a hunt you agreed to do. Return to the Archadian Wayfarer in the Chosen Path of the Tchita Uplands to receive a reward: 1000 gil and three Remedies! Heal and save at the crystal, then return to the Hall of Lambent Darkness (where you fought the Mandragora bosses) in the Sochen Cave Palace.

Join the Club

Defeat the Crystalbug

Exit the Hall of Lambent Darkness via either side door (east or west) into the Acolyte's Burden area. Follow the corridors north to the Save Crystal… except, it isn't a Save Crystal! Yes, another sneaky Crystalbug starts slinging Water attacks at the party. If you came here directly from the boss battle, your party may be depleted, so fight carefully. You may want to return to the hall and run around to rebuild MP levels before you battle the bug.

Actually, you can skip the Crystalbug fight if you want and proceed directly east into the main part of the palace. However, this is the last Save Crystal you'll see for a long time, so it's best that you hammer the bug into submission.

Hit this annoying Crystalbug disguised as a Save Crystal.

Sochen Cave Palace (Main)

Action Checklist
1	Navigate through the palace.
2	OPTIONAL! Solve the waterfall puzzle to reach the item in a secret room.
3	Defeat Ahriman.
4	Exit the caves into Old Archades.

Find a Palace Map

From the Save Crystal (formerly the Crystalbug) in the Acolyte's Burden area, take the east door to enter the main palace. All sorts of demons prowl the cave corridors, so be ready for combat. In the Mirror of the Soul, go north through the ancient door to the path split. Watch out for a swarm of Imps and a Pit Fiend. Next, turn east and stay close to the easternmost (right) wall as you move toward an alcove with a Map Urn that is guarded by three Gorgimeras. The map will be very helpful in the next areas. Continue to hug the right side wall while moving north across the zone line into the next area, Falls of Time.

Imps and Pit Fiends abound in the palace.

Find the Map Urn right away, especially if you want to solve the waterfall puzzle.

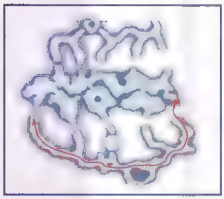
OPTIONAL! Solve the Waterfall Puzzle

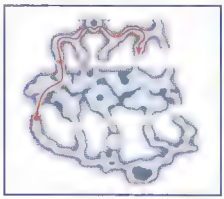
If you examine the Area Map, you will see a small room in the center of the palace between the southern Mirror of the Soul and the northern Falls of Time. This room holds a treasure chest with an item inside. However, a waterfall blocks the entrance from the north. In fact, numerous waterfalls block passages between the areas. When you move from the Falls of Time area to the Mirror of the Soul area, you trigger magick that actually moves the waterfall locations! (The game states: "The course of the waterfalls seems to have changed.") If you follow the correct route back and forth between the two areas, you can create a path to the secret room.

Several waterfalls block passages between areas of the Sochen Cave Palace, but you can manipulate their locations by simply moving from room to room.

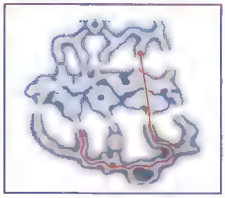
The best way to describe the route is visually with maps, so move from room to room in the order shown here.



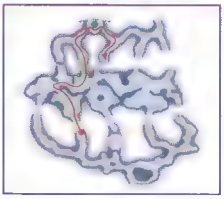
First move.



Second move.



Third move.



Fourth move.

When you return south from the Falls of Time to the Mirror of the Soul the last time, you receive a message that a door has opened in the distance. Go across the bridge directly ahead and venture south into the cave. This path leads to the Pilgrim's Door. The inscription on it provides directions for the moves you just completed. After reading it, enter the room and get the treasure.

Head North to Ahriman

Now head north through the Falls of Time and up the middle of Destiny's March. At the far northern edge of the palace is the Hall of Shadowlight, where a boss battle looms.

RUN AROUND FOR MP

Remember that you build MP by moving around. If you have characters with Mist Charges that aren't full, simply run in a circle around the northern room until their MP fills up.

Consider a Save

There is no Save Crystal near the Hall of Shadowlight where you fight Ahriman. Since you have accomplished quite a bit in the palace, especially if you solved the waterfall puzzle, you may want to return south to the Acolyte's Burden Save Crystal to save your game.

The Western Menace

You can see the Hall of the Wroth God on your Area Map at this point. This is the home of a mighty (and optional) boss called the Hell Wyrm. You can't get there just yet, however. You must first complete some tasks amongst the Cerobi Steppe windmills, including the hunt for Vyraal. After that, you must solve a directional puzzle here in the Sochen Cave Palace (similar to the waterfall puzzle) to unlock the path to the Hall of the Wroth God. For all the details, check out the "Side Quests" chapter and look for the section on the Hell Wyrm.

Ahriman

[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
38	62149	0	28
[illegible]	Sky Jewel, Death Powder, Maduin Gear

The ghostly Ahriman is another one of those maddening foes who keeps the party tied up with status ailments. This boss will toss Doom, Confuse, Blind, and Sleep at the party in combination on occasion. Ahriman also conjures up replicas of itself. At times, you'll find three or four "Ahrimans" in your target selection box.

There are a couple of keys to achieve victory over this boss. First, make sure you heal status ailments immediately. Good status-removing gambits automate this process, but keep an eye on your characters' MP levels. If MP drops to zero, your status-healing spells like Vox and Blindna are worthless. Use the Charge technick, or start using the corresponding items in your inventory such as Echo Herbs and Eye Drops. In any case, you need Remedies available with the License upgrades that allow them to cure Doom as well as other status ailments.

Second, keep moving and swinging away, even when Ahriman's "shadows" (the replicas it spawns) have the party confused. The replicas are weak, so they will drop after one or two good hits. You can also utilize Cura or Bio against the shadows, as these spells will destroy all of the shadows within range with one spell.

Keep everybody's HP above 50 percent, if possible. Ice Shields make good equipment, since Ahriman likes to cast Blizzara at your party. When Ahriman's HP bar hits the 20% mark, watch out for a powerful Maser Eye attack that deals heavy damage. If you have Raise or Phoenix Down gambits set in each ally's number 1 gambit slot (and you should), the party can pull through this brutal area attack.

SWIVEL THAT CAMERA

[illegible]

Ahriman likes to use Blizzara spells. An Ice Shield will cut down on the damage sustained. Don't panic when you see multiple Ahrimans in your target box: the shadows are weak.

Quickenings will hurt Ahriman, but probably not enough to risk expending all of your MP on them. Consider holding back on Quickenings until Ahriman's HP bar drops below half. Try keeping a reserve party with Mist Charges ready if possible, and swap them in for a Quickening chain when Ahriman's HP drops below one-quarter. After the battle, pick up the treasures around the perimeter of the room and exit via the east door into the Temptation Eluded area.

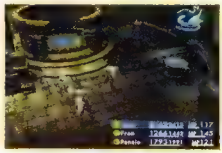
There is still no Save Crystal in sight yet, so stay alert! Watch out for lots of explosive traps at intervals in the passage ahead. (If you took off your Bangle for the boss fight, equip it now to locate the traps or use Libra.) Fight through the Strikers and Imps guarding the long passage that slopes up into a large room, then exit north into the Chamber of the Chosen.



Find the lift and ride it out of the Sochen Cave Palace once and for all.

Climb the spiral rock ramp to the elevator platform. Activate the Disused Pedestal to ride the lift platform up to the Skybent Chamber, then use the Save Crystal. Open the stone door and exit into Old Archades, the slum on the outskirts of the imperial city, where the party can finally breathe some fresh air. Well, sort of...

SEAL HISTORY

The third Scout and Raiders organization operated in China. Scouts and Raiders were deployed to fight with the Sino-American Cooperation Organization, or SACO. To help bolster the work of SACO, Admiral Ernest J. King ordered that 120 officers and 900 men be trained for "Amphibious Roger" at the Scout and Ranger school at Ft. Pierce, FL. They formed the core of what was envisioned as a "guerrilla amphibious organization of Americans and Chinese operating from coastal waters, lakes and rivers employing small steamers and sampans."

While most Amphibious Roger forces remained at Camp Knox in Calcutta, three of the groups saw active service. They conducted a survey of the Upper Yangtze River in the spring of 1945 and, disguised as coolies, conducted a detailed three-month survey of the Chinese coast from Shanghai to Kitchiok Wan, near Hong Kong.

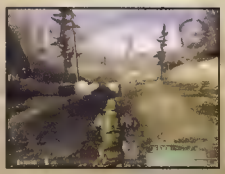
At the beginning of the mission, go prone and hold position. Wait until the two-man patrol on the bridge straight ahead is walking away from you. Cross over the road and inch your way north through the bushes toward Charlie point.

Once you're below the tower, turn right and start following the stream under the bridge. Ahead is a single soldier. Take him out quietly, then continue following the water.

BONUS OBJECTIVE

If you're not concerned about the secondary objective of moving silently to the training camp, then from the stream take the path up to the tower. Dispose of all the soldiers, and proceed down the road until you come to the bridge. Take out any enemies you see. Man one of the machine guns and wait for the Troop Transport to come. Have your entire team take out the transport as soon as it is in your sights. Pack an AT-4 for good measure.



If the secondary object is important to you, follow the stream curves to the left there is another soldier standing guard to your right. Dispose of him with a head shot. Continue walking in the water as it is shaded by the surrounding cliffs.

STAYING IN THE SHADE

There is obviously less cover for you during a daytime mission. Besides hiding in the bushes, use the shade as cover.

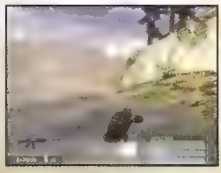
As soon as you go under the wood bridge, you'll notice a soldier on the left bank ahead. Take him out. Remain in position as his buddy guarding the right bank may run over to see what happened. If he does, show him the same fate. Otherwise, proceed slowly down the water and set your sights on the right bank for the other soldier.

Continue moving in the stream until it empties into the lake. Turn right and head southeast along the lake's edge. The training camp is just above you on the right. Remember to move quietly.

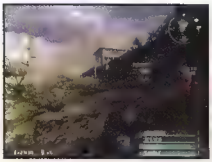
Just past the first embankment, have your trigger ready for a soldier walking towards you around the bend. Get off your shot first.

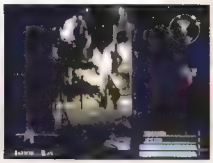


PRIMARY OBJECTIVE: INFILTRATE TRAINING CAMP

SECONDARY OBJECTIVE: MAINTAIN STEALTH INTO TRAINING CAMP

Continue around the same bend, and then follow the brush up the embankment toward Foxtrot point. At Foxtrot point, open the door, which leads to the backside of the training camp. Once inside, you've successfully maintained stealth into the training camp.

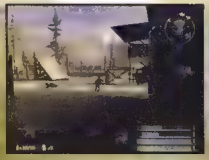




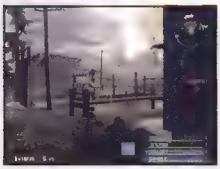
DOOR CLOSED

[illegible] entire team is inside the training camp, make sure to [illegible] door behind you. Open doors raise suspicion from [illegible] patrols.

As you enter the camp, move left and hug the building in front of you. Peek around the corner, there may be one or two soldiers in the vicinity. Set your team to FIRE AT WILL. Have Bravo cover the camp while you clean out the structure next to your present location.

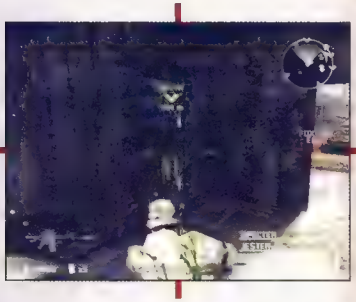


PRIMARY OBJECTIVE: OBTAIN ARMS INTEL



The Arms Deal papers are a random objective. They may appear in either the two outer buildings or inside the tower in the camp.

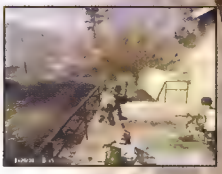
Continue sweeping the camp by moving east with the entire team. Don't demo the Arms Supplies yet. Use it, instead, as cover. Have Bravo cover the main building while you and Jester clean out the guard structure next to the Arms Supplies.

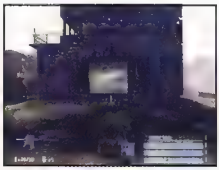


Inside the guard building pull the gate lever to close the camp's gates. This ensures that any enemies outside won't come into the camp and attack you, especially later when you make your escape.

PRIMARY OBJECTIVE: DEMO ARMS DEAL SUPPLIES

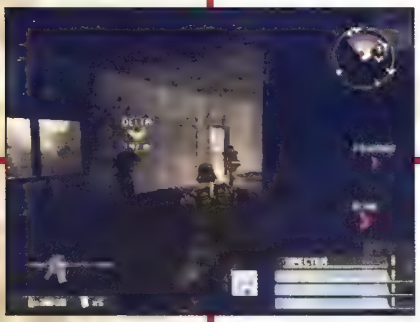
Order Bravo team to your position at the guard house. Once there, have everyone set their sights on the main building while you demo the weapons shipment next to you.





Proceed with the team to the main camp building. As you enter, watch out for at least one soldier standing next to the tables at the other end of the room. Take him out, then proceed up the stairs.

At the top of the stair-well is the Mercenary you need to capture along with one of his comrades. You can't swarm the room or else you might inadvertently kill the target. Instead, toss a flashbang into the room.



OFF-THE-WALL FLASHBANG

dangerous to peer around the corner and toss the flashbang. , throw the grenade against the wall and let it ricochet deep into

PRIMARY OBJECTIVE: CAPTURE MERCENARY

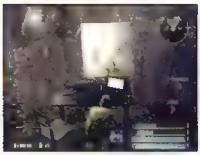
As soon as the flashbang goes off, enter the room quickly. Take care of the gun-toting soldier, then rifle butt the Mercenary until he drops his weapon and gives up.

STOCK BUTTING THE RIFLE

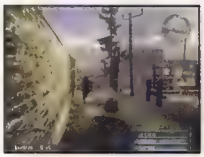
If you're close to an enemy, a Rifle Butt icon appears. Press ⊗ to execute the head-splitting maneuver on your victim. Performed at least twice will make the enemy drop his weapons and surrender to you.

PRIMARY OBJECTIVE: OBTAIN LAPTOP

Collect the laptop, which is sitting on top of the table in the same room. Now move to extraction with your hostage. But before going back downstairs, look outside on the roof of the guard house. If there's a sniper, take him out.



Order the Mercenary to FOLLOW, then proceed down the stairs and exit the same way you entered. Run across to the camp's wall where the arms supply once sat, and follow the wall to the back entrance of the camp where you originally came in.



PRIMARY OBJECTIVE: MOVE MERCENARY TO EXTRACT

Before leaving the camp, scan right from the doorway. There's probably a soldier running toward you. Take him out. Double-time it to the extraction zone, which is along the water. The helicopter picks you up once everyone is there. Mission finished. If you failed to maintain stealth you must use the Alt Extraction Point where the road forks.

Private Lessons

Want to elevate yourself from Guitar Hero to Guitar God? Well, my friend, you've come to the right place. This chapter is designed to help you jump in and start stummin' and struttin' like a true Rock Hero. We'll clue you in to some tips and techniques that you might not have previously known about, that high-level rockers use when they want to get through those super-tough guitar solos and riffs. In addition, following our developer interview chapters, we have complete note charts of every song in Expert Mode every song in Career Mode proper. From "Shout at the Devil" to "Free Bird," and more, it's all in here. Once you've conquered Expert Mode, rest assured you'll be able to take on all challengers. So strap in, sit tight, grab your SG Controller, and let's rock out together!

KNOW YOUR AXE

FRETS

Frets are what enable notes to be played when strummed, just like a real guitar. If you're using the SG Controller (and for this game, you really should be!), then they're represented as color-coded buttons.

Green: This is the primary note. It's meant to be used by the player's index finger.

Red: This is the secondary note. It can be most easily used by the middle finger, but sometimes by the index finger in higher difficulties.

This is the tertiary/middle note. It can be used most easily by the ring finger, but sometimes by the middle finger in higher difficulties.

Blue: This is the fourth note. It can be most easily used by the pinky finger, but sometimes the ring finger is used in higher difficulties.

Orange: This is the final note. It's meant to be used by the player's pinky finger.

1 Carry Yourself Home

Note that on the SG Controller, there is a small, upraised nub in the middle of the Yellow Fret Button that can easily be felt by your fingers. This is because the Yellow Fret is, for all intents and purposes, the "Home Fret." It's used to help you keep your bearings, even when switching fingers for tough songs that require lots of finger movements.

2 STRUM BAR

The Fret Buttons are only part of a note-playing whole. The Strum Bar is what allows them to actually be played. To play a note of a certain color, wait until a button containing that color scrolls down to the cues at the bottom of the screen. Once the button and the cue line up, then, while holding down that colored Fret Button, use the Strum Bar to play it. The Strum Bar can be flicked up or down—using both strumming directions can be crucial to your success at higher levels.

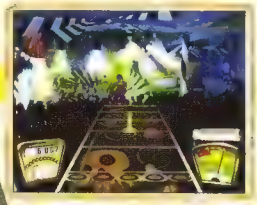
3 WHAMMY BAR

The Whammy Bar is your best friend when playing Long Notes. During Long Notes, you can use the whammy bar to give any of these notes a rippling sound that not only sounds awesome, but very slightly increases your score. That's not all! Using the Whammy Bar during Star Power Long Notes, you can extract Star Power for your own use. Fill your meter quickly, then unleash it to send both your Rock Meter and your high score skyrocketing.

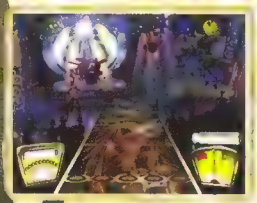
CONCERT SURVIVAL

ROCK METER

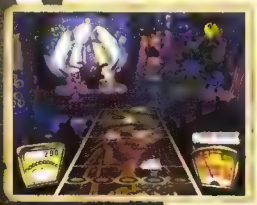
As you play your song in front of your audience, be mindful of the meter that's in the lower right corner of the screen. This is the Rock Meter, and keeping an eye on it can mean the difference between victory and defeat.



If it's Green, you're doing great. You want to make sure you're in this zone as often as possible.



If it's in the Yellow, you're doing all right, but you might want to think about playing a little harder.

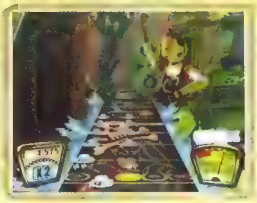


If you're in the Red, you're not doing so hot. If you have some Star Power saved, and you're playing for survival rather than points, this is the best time to bust it out and get yourself back into the Yellow or Green.

If you're Flashing Red, you're about to be booed off of the stage. Miss a few more notes and that's it, buster. Again, Star Power can save your life, but use it well. You're totally in danger here.

STAR POWER

Star Power lets your Guitar Hero channel the power of pure momentum, and bend the crowd to your whims, no matter how the show's been going up until this point. Star Power lets you get your Rock Meter back to where it should be, plus it's great for building up points.



To use Star Power, press the Select Button, or tilt your SG Controller upright. From then on, your mission is to play as many notes as possible, as well as possible. This is because Star Power doubles your score multiplier for as long as it lasts.

Choose Your Moments

Listen up! The best times to use Star Power are:

1. If your Rock Meter is Red or Flashing Red.
2. If your current score multiplier is x3 or x4, and you're on a roll.
3. If there is a large cluster of notes about to come up in a song that you are confident in playing perfectly.

Whatever circumstance you choose, never waste Star Power on song sections that have no notes to play. Star Power is useless without music to back it up.

SCORING

Your Score can be seen in the lower left corner of the screen as you play songs. You'll want to get this as high as possible in order to gain higher rankings for beating a song. You'll also be able to check out your current Score Multiplier.

MULTIPLIERS

For every ten notes that you play correctly in a row, your score multiplier increases, and the potential scores you receive for playing certain types of notes increases in kind.

In Normal Mode, you start at 1X. In Star Power Mode, you start at 2X.

NORMAL MODE

- 1X Each note type is worth its original point value.
- 2X Play 10 notes perfectly in a row, and all point values are doubled.
- 3X Play 20 notes perfectly in a row, and all point values are tripled
- 4X Play 30 notes, and you'll have achieved maximum multiplier. Keep it here for great scores!

STAR POWER MODE:

- 2X Your multiplier starts here in Star Power Mode. Also, if you miss a note here, you'll be bumped back down to this multiplier. It's not bad, but Star Power Mode has so much potential that you don't want to stay here for long.
- 4X With only 10 perfect notes, you can achieve Normal Mode's maximum multiplier. Keep it going, however, and you'll be able to break this limit.
- 6X After 20 notes, you'll finally realize the potential of Star Power. Every note carries six times its original point value. Remember, this also includes Chords and Long Notes.
- 8X The ultimate multiplier, and totally worth the practice it takes to reach it. Use this multiplier to take your scores to unknown heights!

Score Shortcuts

When activated, Star Power instantly multiplies your current Score Multiplier by 2. Therefore, if you activate your Star Power while at X4, you'll automatically be bumped up to X8. See what we're getting at here? Use this knowledge for some sneaky surprise attacks in Face-Off and Pro Face-Off Modes. It's great for coming back from behind!

ESSENTIAL TECHNIQUES

Ease of Use!

If you're a veteran of the original Guitar Hero, you'll be overjoyed to know that Hammer-Ons (as well as Pull-Offs) have been made much easier this time around. For all you newcomers, well... let's just say we old-heads used to walk to school in the snow, uphill both ways, and we liked it. (Only, you know, not so much with the liking.) Anyway, props to the coders for throwing us a bone!

HAMMER-ON

The principle behind this technique is that, just like a real guitar, note vibration only takes place at the highest held note when strummed. If you play a note, and play a higher note right after it, the noise of the guitar will shift even after you've strummed the first note.

To Hammer-On, play your first note as usual, but while keeping your finger on the original Fret Button, place your next finger on the next fret in the sequence you want to play. You won't have to strum for the next note to play it! Remember, this only works for climbing notes. Pull-Offs handle descending notes. Hold on grasshopper, it is about to be explained.

PULL-OFF

As one would suspect, these are Hammer-Ons in reverse. The key here is to strum a higher note, then as soon as a lower note comes into play, press the Fret Button for that note without strumming. You can also have all of the Fret Buttons you want to play held down in advance, then lift, or "pull off" your fingers one by one after the initial strum.

Crack the Code

When you look through songs as you play them, and when you look at the charts in this guide, you'll notice that some Fret Notes are white in the center instead of black-and-white. These all-white notes mean that you can use the Hammer-On or Pull-Off technique to play them. Just use the preceding black-centered notes to find out which of these techniques you need to use. Convenient, isn't it?

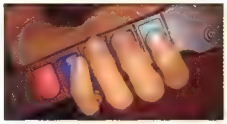
DOUBLE-STRUMMING

Many people who start out playing Guitar Hero only strum the Strum Bar downward. As notes get faster in higher difficulties, they try to compensate by strumming in that same direction faster, until their wrists cry out in pain.

Spare yourself the Carpal Tunnel. Double-Strumming is the act of strumming the Strum Bar both up and down, as opposed to a single direction. It is the only way you will survive strings of notes that are directly next to each other—sometimes grouped into three or four to a single beat! Use this technique well, and you'll be able to bust through even the fastest of songs.

SHIFTING

Shifting is the practice of using all of your fingers to move back and forth across the set of colored Fret Buttons. This applies mainly to Hard and Expert modes. People starting these modes usually only shift their fingers when they see an Orange note coming, and shift back when it's been played. However, using shifting as more than just a way to let your pinky accommodate the Orange Fret can be a valuable skill. Remember the Yellow Fret Button as the "Home Fret." It's there for exactly this purpose.



NOTE TYPES

There are three main types of notes that you'll encounter in Guitar Hero II, not counting combinations of each. The way to handle each note is different.

SINGLE NOTES

These are normal notes, sitting all by themselves. To play them, simply Strum them with the correct Fret Button held down.

LONG NOTES

Long Notes are Single Notes with lines attached. To play these, Strum them as usual, but keep the Fret Button held down for the entire note's length. There is no need to keep the Strum Bar held down as well.

CHORDS

Chords are two notes played at once. As such, to Strum these, you must have both of the correct Fret Buttons played at once.

GLOWING/STAR NOTES:

Single Star Power Notes come in sets: play the entire set perfectly, and you'll be rewarded with some Star Power. Long Star Power Notes allow you to use the Whammy Bar to extract their energy, and store it in your Star Power meter.

DIFFICULTIES

There are four difficulties to Guitar Hero II. Choose which one is right for you.

Easy: This contains the slowest pace, and only three Frets—Green, Red and Yellow—are used.

Medium: When you start to find Easy a little too, well, easy, upgrade to Medium. The pace is faster, and you now must use the Blue Fret as well.

Hard: Now you're in the big leagues. Hard introduces the Orange Fret, and the pace is faster still. Also, get ready for your first taste of Triple Chords. Whoa!

Expert: All the stops are pulled out here, and the game shows no mercy. Prepare to deal with super-fast guitar solos, huge rows of alternating notes, Triple Chords, and even a few instances of Green/Orange Chords! Fortunately, this book covers this mode, so you're prepared… aren't you?

TRACKS

There are three types of note tracks for every song in Guitar Hero II. Use them together to create a rocking concert in your house.

GUITAR

The main guitar line, and the one you'll be playing with in Career Mode. You'll be most familiar with this.

RHYTHM/BASS

These secondary guitar lines are usually easier than the main Guitar line, but don't think they're easy rides. Sometimes, they can surprise you.

MULTIPLAYER GAME MODES

CAREER MODE

This is the main single-player game. There are 40 songs here, and doing well in this mode will give you cash to unlock hidden items, guitars, guitar players, songs, everything your heart desires (well, maybe…).

TRAINING

This mode is where you go to hone your Guitar Hero skills.

TUTORIALS

Want an easy explanation of the game's inner workings? Hit up this mode.

PRACTICE

This is the biggie. You can choose any song to practice in indefinitely, with no Rock Meter to hold you back. Not only that, but you can zero in on certain sections of a song, and adjust their speed! This is great for being able to practice those lengthy guitar solos at a reasonable pace.

SINGLE-PLAYER GAME MODES

COOPERATIVE

One player takes the main track, the other takes the supporting track (rhythm or bass). Your mission: to work together and bring the house down! To activate Star Power, you BOTH must tilt your guitars up at the same time. Be careful, because you also share the same Rock Meter. Get it too low, and the crowd will boo the both of you off of the stage simultaneously. Talk about the ultimate humiliation.

FACE OFF

Two shredders enter, only one leaves. Song sections are passed back and forth between both players. Which of you is the most intense? Don't blow your chance when it comes up!

SECRET MODE!—PRO FACE-OFF

Beat Career Mode to unlock this mode, and see who among you is the hardest rocker out there. Unlike regular Face-Off mode, the song is NOT split into parts; both players share the same track and notes to play. No more excuses about "easier parts" here! This one's for all the marbles!

USING THE EXPERT TABS IN THIS BOOK

In the game, all of the notes scroll down to you. Use this same line of thinking when you use the tabs for the songs that have been provided in the back of this book. Start at the bottom left hand side of the page and work your way up the column. Then, when you reach the top, start at the bottom of the next column. Simple?

The tabs that have been provided are for the hardest level of the game (the Expert level that really requires some study). By looking at these tabs, you should be able to find trouble spots in a song (typically the solos) and work on them until you nail them perfectly. Good luck!

BIZARRO'S BESTIARY: ENEMY STATS AND COMBAT STRATEGIES FOR ACT III

BRADYGAMES

Robot Remnants

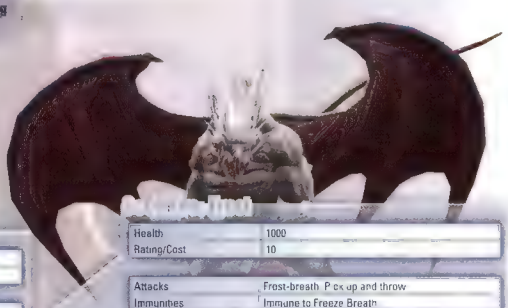
Metallo may be gone, but his minions still menace the city, and you'll face some of them in Bizarro's chapters. Robot stats and info remain the same as in Act II, so refer back to the "Robot Roll-Call" at the beginning of our Act II walkthrough for a review of how to beat the bot baddies.

Scoldfire: Flame

Health	1000
Rating/Cost	7
Attacks	Flame-breath, Fireball, Pick up and throw
Immunities	Immune to Heat Vision
Max Speed (mph)	120
PERCENT CHANCE TO BLOCK YOUR ATTACKS:
Melee/Superpower	0/0

NOTES

Freeze breath combo'd into a Superspeed ram will make short work of flame Scoldfires. Freezing and then throwing them also does heavy damage



Scoldfire: Frost

Health	1000
Rating/Cost	10
Attacks	Frost-breath, Pick up and throw
Immunities	Immune to Freeze Breath
Max Speed (mph)	120
PERCENT CHANCE TO BLOCK YOUR ATTACKS:
Melee/Superpower	0/0

NOTES

Heat Vision is best against the frosty Scoldfires as long as you can dance away from their freeze attacks. These Scoldfires tend to bum rush Superman, so flying around and away from them is key to managing your stamina. If all else fails, use air melee attacks, ramming them at Superspeed and punching away

Gnarrl

Health	3000
Rating/Cost	20
Attacks	Explosion, Leaping Claw, Jump kick, Time-bomb power response
Immunities	Immune to Superbreath and Grab attacks
Max Speed (mph)	42
PERCENT CHANCE TO BLOCK YOUR ATTACKS:
Melee/Superpower	50/50
Special	Stone form regeneration

NOTES

It is tempting to use your superpowers against Gnarrls since they re so brutal in groups, but your heat and freeze powers have only a 50 percent chance of hitting, plus you trigger the nasty side effect of a massive energy blast backlash from angry Gnarrls hit by superpowers. This backlash inflicts heavy damage to city health.

Master your combo strings and your one-versus-many brawling techniques (including area attacks like Earthquake and Supernova) to do well against the Gnarrls. The moment a Gnarrl assumes its stone form, attack it immediately with combos before it can fully regenerate back to its normal form.

Stone Gnarrl

Health	1000
Rating/Cost	N/A
Attacks	None
Immunities	Immune to all superpowers
Max Speed (mph)	0
PERCENT CHANCE TO BLOCK YOUR ATTACKS:
Melee/Superpower	0/100
Special	Respawns Gnarrl after 30 seconds

NOTES

When you knock a Gnarrl's health bar down to zero, the beast petrifies into stone. This stone form sits there unmoving for 30 seconds, after which the Gnarrl regenerates its original self with full health—that is, unless you can manage to batter the stone form into pebbles before the regeneration time's up. Superpowers don't work on the Stone Gnarrl, but simple melee combos are enough to smash it.

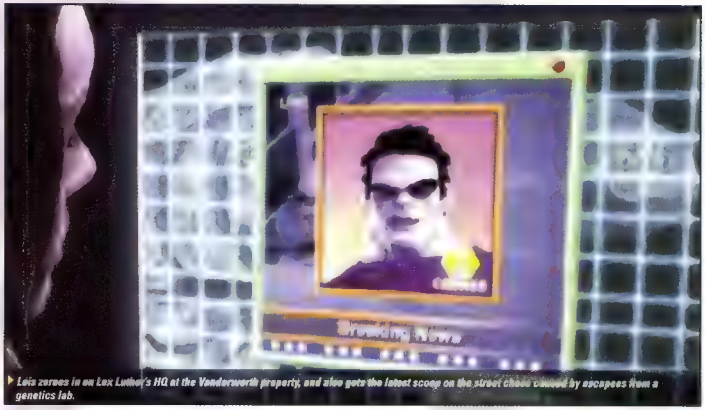
Follow the Critical Objective icon (the question mark) to the Daily Planet to open the chapter, which also marks the beginning of Act III. (If you saved your game at the end of the Chapter 8 and reload it later, Superman appears hovering directly in front of the Daily Planet building.) Fly toward the globe atop the building to trigger a scene in which Lois Lane tracks down the source of the recent EMP wave that knocked out power.



Lois zeroes in on Lex Luthor's HQ at the Vanderworth property, and also gets the latest scoop on the street chase caused by escapees from a genetics lab.

Lois learns that the wave emanated from the Vanderworth property. She also hears that the power outage allowed Bizarro and other clone experiments to escape from Cadmus across town in the Research Park district. Reports of flying monsters are coming in from that area.

After the cinematic ends, follow either one of the two Superhearing icons that appear within 60 seconds or so. Either one leads you to Bizarro in the Research Park district on the west end of town. We prefer the northernmost location with its open park for easier maneuvering.

Defeat Bizarro: "Me Am You"

Bizarro has great destructive powers and an obsessive, reverse-logic urge to "save" Metropolis by obliterating it. The key is to keep him occupied with "helping" (destroying) you instead. Get his attention with superpower blasts—but use them without burst activation, as he's immune to burst superpowers. When you get in close, mix in any of your melee moves and combos except Grab attacks (he's immune to those, too) to deal damage to him. Justice Bringer is a good combo against Bizarro.

▶ Bizarro wants to "aid" Metropolis with violence and extreme prejudice. Grab his attention (his span is very short) with superpower blasts, then keep him engaged with long combo strings.

Bizarro is very fast; keep your thumb near the Block button, ready to get defensive when he starts his long combo strings and intense superpower attacks. He has a 50 percent chance to block any attack you launch at him, so be patient and prepared for a long battle in which you wear him down slowly.

▶ When you finally wear Bizarro down, he escapes.

When you defeat Bizarro, he escapes and you gain 15,000 of the 60,000 XP you need to complete this chapter. The other 45,000 XP must be earned 7,500 at a time by completing six of the following Metro Events, which will occur in random order as before. Some possible events are waves of robots you've seen before. Other waves are comprised of the cloned creatures that have escaped from Cadmus.

"Size Synthesis" Waves

The "Size Synthesis" group is a combined squad of light Decrep-bots and heavy Bruizer Bots. Keep in mind that Heat Vision doesn't affect the flamethrower-equipped version of the Bruizer Bot; in fact, if you try to toast a Bruizer flamethrower with Heat Vision, Superman wonders aloud, "Why isn't this working?" or "My powers aren't having any effect on it!"

"Fast Flunkies and Flyers" Waves

This Metro Event features Speedbots and Flyerbots spawned together into Metropolis. Eliminate the flying menace first; their kryptonite pulse beams will be a thorn in your side until you knock them out. This mission requires a lot of Superspeed tracking. Remember to get up high when hunting for the next target; avoid slaloming through skyscraper canyons, which wastes chase time and causes too many collisions.

"Metallurgy" Waves

This combination features Bruizer Bots working together with Flyerbots. Immediately tag the flying robots before they spread out across the city, then turn your attention to the big, slow Bruizer Bots below.

"Tin Can Army" Waves

This special event features a big tanker truck on the Metropolis highway, surrounded by angry robots intent on blowing it up. Try to eliminate the Bruizer Bots and Decrep-bots before they can demolish the tanker and cause more destruction.

"Fire In the Sky" Waves

This event features a wave of Flame Scoldfires only, all intent on setting fire to Metropolis structures. You will see the green enemy icons of the Scoldfires in the distance; if one of the beasts manages to start a building fire, an orange event icon will appear to mark the location of the blaze. (For more information on putting out fires, check out "Wildfire Events" in this chapter.)

Hit the Flame Scoldfires of "Fire in the Sky" waves with Freeze Breath and then ram them at Superspeed.

These monsters are easily handled with Freeze Breath and a quick Superspeed ram. While flying, use your Target Lock to lock on a Scoldfire and Superspeed toward it while at the same time blowing frosty breath. The flying beast will be frozen by the time you hit it, and one good ram knocks it out of the sky.

▸ When you see an orange icon appear amongst the green ones during a Scoldfire battle, speed to it and use Freeze Breath to put out the building fire.

"Cloned Creeps" Waves

Speed to this event to find a pack of nasty Gnarrls howling and wreaking havoc. Don't use your superpowers on them! A superpower attack on a Gnarrl just triggers an explosive "time bomb" response. Don't try to grab Gnarrls either, they're immune to Grab attacks. Instead, pound it out with them. Hit individual Gnarrls with punches and combos, or if they're swarming you, hit all of them with an area attack like Earthquake or Supernova.

▸ Immediately punch out any Gnarrl that turns to stone, or else it will regenerate a new Gnarrl with full health. Don't use superpower attacks on the stone form.

It's important to note that Gnarrls can regenerate themselves back to full health. When you knock a Gnarrl's health bar down to zero, the beast petrifies into a stone form. After 30 seconds, the stone form regenerates into a fully healed Gnarrl. So the moment you see Gnarrl petrify, ignore all other foes and start hammering the stone with punches and melee combos. Don't use superpower attacks, because the Stone Gnarrl is immune to them.
